APPENDIX

Queries and Clarifications thereof:

Sl. No.	Query	Clarification
I.	Applicability of Compulsory Rotating Medical Internship (CRMI) Regulations, 2021, Published on 18.11.2021, on Foreign Medical Graduates.	• The CRMI Regulations, 2021 apply to Foreign Medical Graduates who took admission to their medical course on or after 18.11.2021, the date on which the regulations were notified. Such candidates are required to undergo one year of Compulsory Rotating Medical Internship in India after qualifying the Foreign Medical Graduate Licentiate Examination (FMGE) in accordance with the provisions of these Foreign Medical Graduate Licentiate Regulations, 2021. • Candidates who took admission before 18.11.2021 will be governed by the Screening Test Regulations, 2002. Such candidates are required to undergo CRMI in India only when they came back to India without undergoing mandatory internship as a part of the medical course in Foreign Medical Institute.
II.	Foreign Medical Graduate (FMG) who have undertaken any part of the medical course through online mode, what will be the eligibility criteria for applying for registration in India?	• In cases where a Foreign Medical Graduate (FMG) who attended online classes during their penultimate and final years and were unable to compensate for such online instruction through physical classes at their parent foreign medical institute will have to undergo one year or two years of clerkship in India, as specified in public notice dated 07.12.2023, in lieu of the period of study conducted through online mode. • However, where the FMG produces a valid Compensatory Certificate as per the Public Notice dated 19.06.2024, issued by the parent foreign medical institution certifying that the online component of the course has already been compensated through physical classes along with internship program as a part of the course, through additional classes or extended course duration, as the case may be, supported by relevant transcripts, such FMG shall be eligible for registration in India. • It is further clarified that FMGs governed by the Screening Test Regulations, 2002, who have already completed the required compensation and internship in physical mode at their parent foreign medical institution, shall not be required to undergo any additional CRMI in India.

III.	What is the meaning of the term "Sufficiently Compensated" as stipulated in the Public Notice dated 19.06.2024?	• The term "Sufficiently Compensated" means that any period during which theory classes, practical training, or internship were conducted through online mode must be compensated by the Foreign Medical Graduate (FMG) through physical attendance at the parent foreign medical institute. • The foreign medical institute is expected to make appropriate arrangements either by conducting additional/extra classes or by extending the duration of the course to enable the FMG to compensate for the online period. • This applies to the FMGs who are pursuing or yet to compensate the online classes. Those who have already compensated are required to submit the compensatory certificate, supported by relevant transcripts.
iv.	Clarification with regard to completion of clerkship in India in lieu of online classes.	• Foreign Medical Graduates (FMGs) who attended online classes during their penultimate and final years and were unable to compensate for such online instruction through physical classes at their parent foreign medical institute will be required to compensate the online classes by undergoing one year / two years of clerkship, as specified in public notice dated 07.12.2023, in lieu of the period of study conducted through online mode. • If a candidate/Foreign Medical Graduate (FMG) has cleared the FMGE and completed one year of Compulsory Rotatory

		Medical Internship (CRMI) in India, along with production of compensatory certificate or clerkship completion certificate, as the case may be, the FMG becomes eligible for the registration, subject to the satisfaction of the State Medical Council about the authenticity of the Compensatory Certificate, & if required, to be corroborated from the entry-exit details in the passport of the FMG.
v.	Who has the primary responsibility to process applications of Foreign Medical Graduates (FMGs) to grant permanent registration in India?	The primary responsibility for processing applications of Foreign Medical Graduates (FMGs) rest exclusively with the respective State Medical Councils (SMCs), in consultation with the concerned State Directorate of Medical Education (DME). In this regard, the SMCs shall verify and ensure that: 1. The FMG has qualified the Screening Test/FMGL Examination; and 2. The FMG has duly completed the compensatory academic requirement, at the same foreign medical institution, duly verified and corroborated from the entry/exit records as reflected in the passport;If not, then the FMG must have undergone the required duration of clerkship in India, as prescribed in the public notice dated 07.12.2023; and State Medical Council shall not grant permanent registration unless it has verified that all required conditions such as onsite compensation for online study, or required clerkship as per the mandate of public notice dated 07.12.2023, and completion of the compulsory rotating internshiphave been met. Any registration granted without following these rules will be considered a regulatory violation.
